How memory is managed in Python?

Python uses automatic memory management through a mechanism called "garbage collection." It has a built-in garbage collector that handles the allocation and deallocation of memory.